Veteran 'Chutist Gives Life to Save Colleague

ALESSANDRIA. Nov. 15 (AP).—A veteran Milanese parachutist gave his life today in order to save his inexperienced Swiss colleague from a certain death, officials of this north Italy city said.

The incident occurred when Mario Gosparini, 35. a veteran of 150 jumps, tried a twin jump from about half a mile up with Swiss Guy Bornet, 24.

Mr. Gosparini, officials said. noticed that Mr. Bornet, in his 30tb jump, was getting entangled with the ropes and delayed opening his own main chute in order not to create a pocket of vacuum that could make matters more complicated for the Swiss.

Mr. Gosparini tried to open his emergency cbute after clearing away from Mr. Bornet. But then he was too low. He died upon impact.

They were at first incorrectly identified but are now said to be the remains of an extinct Eurasian great ape, dryopithecus indicus, according to paleontologists Elwyn Simons, Yale geology professor, and David Pilbeam, associate professor of anthropology.

Prof. Simons reported the research at a meeting of the Society of Vertebrate Paleontology here.

The scientists conclude from research that the species identifled is related to the ancestry of gigantopithecus, a primate that lived from five million to ten million years ago and was the product of a common genetic pool out of which both man and apes emerged, Teeth evidence indicated that the pre-near-man, ramanitheous punjabicus, probably became an adult much more slowly than the ape dryopithecus. The two types, which lived at about the same time, were as ecologically and behaviorally distinct as chimpanzees and gorrillas.

Call up and ask if you can take down your line of credit in Eurodollars, nonresident sterling, and three different local currencies - drachmas, rupiahs, and N. T. dollars.

All at the same time.

Chances are, you'll get a mixed answer."Yes" on the Eurodollars and non-resident sterling. "No" on the local currencies.

Because most banks don't have foreign branches. And without a branch or subsidiary in a country, a bank can't directly lend the local currency.

At American Express International Banking Corporation, you can get a global line of credit. We can lend you Eurodollars. Non-resident currencies. And a wide range of local currencies.

All on a single line of credit.

Only five or six banks in the world offer you this much flexibility. We can do it because we have 48 branches and offices of subsidiaries. In 17 countries. Six in Germany, four in Pakistan, and three in India. To name just a few.

With this worldwide system, we can adjust your line of credit to fit the needs of your business. We can even switch your currencies at the end of loan periods to adjust to a change in your needs. Or in the risks or costs of foreign exchange.

In fact, we'll be glad to review your choices of currency regularly. To help you get the right currencies in the right places. At the right time.

Which brings us to our philosophy of international banking. We don't think it's enough just to help you do business. We want to help you do it profitably.

American Express International Banking Corporation has 48 branches and subsidiaries handling all types of banking transactions all over the world. # Lame Ducks Can Fly

The lame-duck session of Congress is, unquestionably, a governmental anomaly. The national legislature has avolded it for 20 years, which was good. Such gatherings generally reflect all the bitternesses of an election campaign, without whatever concrete results might stem from the verdict of the voters: they include senators and representativee who have been defeated at the polls and present little time and less incentive to produce a constructive legislative record.

It was in that cheeriess context that Congress met in Washington yeeterday. Ths Indecisive results of the elections could give little impetus to clear up the heavy hacklog of measures which Congress left behind in the middle of Octoher, when it went off to get re-elected. And it remains to be seen just what effect the vigorous preeldential Intervention in the campaign will have on the temper of House and Senate.

This is unfortunate. The administration. before it got so deeply involved in its war with the Senats and Its crusade against "permissiveness," had the framework of an excellent domestic policy, in some major areas. This is especially true in respect to the major reforme proposed for the welfare system. It was also being confronted with a serious threat to its trade policies, in the form of quota proposals that could set off a general and devastating trade war.

Both the promise and the threat remain on the congressional agenda. But it is quas-tionable whether the tone of administration attacks on the opposition to its attitude on war and defense will help to realize ths promise or avert the threat. Indeed, the best hope for maintaining the administration programs on family assistance and trada lay in some of the eenators, Democratic and Republican, who were attacked, specifically or by inference, by administration spokes-

It is not, however, inevitable that a lameduck Congress do no more than is expected of it, any more than a lame duck must necessarily confins Itself to limping. Congress can huckle down to work for this short session, and get things done-and they do not have to be thinge that will cause trouble for the country. The senators and representatives need not pass the buck to the next session, nor be motivated by spits, or petty political considerations.

If Congress, in its concern over present economic trends, will remember how hightariff legislation during the Hoover administration contributed to the Depression, It will stop its dangerous tinkering with quotas. If it recalls the dead weight that by Benn Levy, the playwright and the "emergency" approach to welfare has meant for the nation since the initial emergency vanished it will take up the President'e family aseistance plan. And if the Whits House will end its autopsies on the election, and exert the positive influence at its command, this session need not be either a vacuum or a loss. Lame ducks can fly.

Stopping a Trade War

If President Nixon Intends to block the highly protectionist Mille bill that would legislate compulsory quotas against imports of textiles, apparel, shoes, oil and eventually a long list of other products, he will have to start fighting now that Congress is back in session.

The trade bill already has been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee. and the Senate Finance Committee has sought to make it unstoppable by attaching It as an amendment to Social Security liheralization. A majority now appears ready to support the measure in both House and

As is usual with trade legislation, the special interests lobbying for protection of particular industries reinforce one another. A formidable coalition is now pushing for this bill, even though it would, almost certainly, ensuarl the United States in a worldwide trade war. Leaders of the European Common Market have made clear the certainty of retallation. Many American exportoriented industries-including such important ones as agriculture, aircraft and electronics-would suffer. What is less well understood by many congressmen is that the nation as a whole would also suffer.

American consumere, already feeling the pangs of inflation, would have to pay still higher prices for many goods-both because less expensive imports would be restricted and because protected American industries would he able to hoost their prices without fear of losing sales in the domestic market to foreign competitors. The term "protectlonist" is, in a sense, a misnomer; it is really an act of aggression against American consumers and many American Industries and workers, as well as against other nations, including some of this country's most important allies.

There is a good chance that this reactionary trade legislation can be blocked in the Senate it strong presidential leadership is forthcoming. The Senate includes a group of at least 20 dedicated liberal-trade supporters who might be joined by many other senators shrinking from the bill's more extreme provisions, such as the "Byrnes trigger." which would impose compulsory quotas on a long list of items whenever imports of these items exceeded a certain share of the American market.

One problem for the President in fighting against the Mills bill has been his own political commitment to the American textile industry-especially its Southern Cepartment -to restrict Japanese textile imports one way or another. The failure last summer to work out a deal with the Japanese for voluntary quotas led the Nixon administration to ask Congress for compulsory quotas to the Mills bill.

Now the President's special assistant. Peter Flanigan, and the Japanese ambassador to the United States are making a final effort to work out a "voinntary" deal that will permit the President to consider his obligations to the American textile industry discharged-and enable him to come out solidly against the Mills hill. If that can be done. the chances will grow that the protectionists can be prevented from rallroading the Mills bill through Congress this year. The new Congress assembling in January would then havs a chance to weigh more carefully the kind of trade legislation needed to serve the true interests of the nation.

High Time, Gentlemen

The British Tourist Authority has eet up an inquiry into how the drinks laws affect tourism and tourists. Tourism isn't a lameduck quacking for a handout. It is a booming and profitable growth industry presenting a highly legitimate, highly important point of view.

It is a dusty welcome to these triendly cash customers from ahroad to tell them they can't have a tankard of heer on a sultry summer afternoon. Because it's "after hours."

Tragedy as Usual

For East Pakistan It is tragedy, as usual. Simple tragedy, with tens of thousands dead; complex tragedy, full of Ironies and human sloth and sickening fatalism. The world can and must respond to the simple challenge, providing relief and expertise and some of the money to make the Ganges Delta safe. But only Pakistan can tackle the complex issues. Pakistan asks for help. but only Pakistan, in the deepest sence, can help herself.

For 23 years of freedom, the rulers of West Pakistan havs allowed the listless mlilions of the overcrowded, undernourished East to languish. Pakistan has been the Punjab-wittler, cleverer, fatter. The army the civil service, and the landlords together have contrived to bleed away what scanty wealth the East produces.

The first and right problem is simply saving lives. But later there will be a second choice: Pakistani forgetfuiness and acceptance of more tragedy or Pakistani determination finally to stem the floods. -From the Guardian (London).

The new management in Westminster is already confronted with familiar difficulties. The trade unions have set off a wave of on gibes about "Ruritania." demands which could increase the wage level by more than 12 percent, while production is growing by only 2 percent—an imbalance which, just after their flying start, could push the pioneers of a liberal Toryism back into the played-out field of "Butskellism."

ONDON.—In approaching the obscenity instead of theorizing subject of obscenity the same man should avoid indignation, pious or libertarian. One possibility is the mocking tone taken former member of Parliament, in a letter to The Times of London the other day.

Studies in several countries. Levy said, have found that criminal laws against obscenity do nothing to prevent depravity and corruption, their stated original purpose. But many people still feel deeply that we must have such laws, so we had hetter find another reason for them: We must "look for a crime to fit the punishment."

Levy was in fact making a more serious point than he intended. Public attitudes are changing; the old justifications for suppressing books and films and the like will not stand np. But there still are social interests to be protected. The problem is to Identify themto hring legal order into an area where disorder is rolling society unnecessarily and making the law seem ludicrous.

Challenge to Court

As it happens, the Supreme Court of the United States has a rare opportunity right now to introduce some civilized clarity into the legal treatment of obscenity. It is hearing a number of significant obscen-ity cases, and they coincide with other developments that point toward possible accommodation of the conflicting interests.

The recent report of the Com-mission on Obscenity has particular relevance. Politicians rushed to denounce the majority's conclusion that "there is no warrant for continued governmental inter-ference with the full freedom of adults to read obtain or view whatever such material they wish." But the majority of ordinary Americans the Supreme Court cannot brush has made clear by what-it pays to the report aside, for it represents read and see that it does not the first serious American effort believe there is a vital social interto investigats the significance of est in suppressing obscenity.

Before it's all over, there is going to be a splendid, hilarious, knock-down, drag-out brawl.

LONDON-It begins to look as though, before Britain's Common Market application is decided one way or the other, there is going to be a really enjoyablethat is to say, absolutely disgrace-ful—political dogsight in this country, to the immense entertainment -I mean horror-of the bystanders, who now seem certain to be treated to-ber pardon, appalled by-the most magnificent—that is, lamentable spectacle of bloody noses, torn ears, and missing teeth. A few weeks ago, for a start, the minister now in charge of Britain's application, Geoffrey Rip-pon, was so injudicious as to use, in a House of Commons discussion of the subject, the word "when," instead of the word "if." Now it is official party doctrine, in both the Conservative government and the Labor opposition, that Britain will sign the Treaty of Rome only if the tarms are acceptable-if, that is, we can be satisfied that the transitional period necessary for the adjustment of our agricultural and horticultural industries is long enough, if the position of the primary producing areas of the Commonwealth is adequately safeguarded, if our cost. of living will not rise too rapidly or steeply, and so on. Mr. Rip-pon's "when" was instantly pounced on by the anti-marketeers as avidence that the present govern-

What is more, the anti-marketeers are right: this government will join Europe on the best terms it can get (Mr. Heath has been very careful indeed never to give the slightest indication of what would, and what would not, be acceptable) and these will be presented as admirable in every way. Of course, there is a dissident minority in the Tory ranks in the Commons, but they have been effectively isolated and have no serious leadership. Across the party divide, Mr. Wil-

A very sub-stantial, and very vociferous, minority of his MPs are entirely opposed to Britain's entry into the Market, on any terms whatever, and a further bloc is opposed unless very favorable conditions can be negotiated. But, however multicolored a patchwork Labor's anti-Market forces present, there is no doubt that Mr. Wilson must pay, or at any rate appear to pay, far greater attention to his dissidents than Mr. Heath so far need pay to his own.

The line-up, then, is thus: Both parties are officially committed to entry "if the price is right." The Tory government, and to a lesser extent the Labor leadership, are in practice committed to entry whether the price is right or not. A Lesson in French

WASHINGTON.—President Nixon did some thinking out loud about political style and statecraft on his journey to Paris last week to honor Gen. de Gaulle, a master of the art.

The President's purpose was to speak about De Gaulle, not about himself. It may only have been coincidence, that with the heat of a bruising political campaign so close behind him, Nixon was expressing enormous respect, indeed envy, for the late French leader's ability to rally a nation with his

Whether or not this provides of leadership ("The Edge of the any chie to President Nixon's Sword," 1932), he wrote: thinking about his own future political style, it can be noted that American presidents in the past have returned from overseas visits -especially to France-with a yearning to add more touches of style, of drama, to the American leadership image. President Kennedy, and especially his wife, were so captivated by the grandeur of the reception given them at Versailles in 1961 that they altered the pattern of White House social life to add more flair and drama.

President Nixon himself was struck by the eye-catching finery of palace guards and ceremonial police he saw on his 1969 trip to Europe. He tried to dress up the drab uniforms of the White House police. That experiment in creamcolored tunics with gold nylon trim and vinyl caps foundered, however,

On his most recent trip it was the felicity of De Gaulle in speech and prose that President Nixon repeatedly cited admiringly to newsmen aboard Air Force One.

He Had 'Class'

"He had the class, the ability." Nixon said at one point, "to move into a very important subject in an easy way."

De Gaulle's conversation, President Nixon observed, "was full of that kind of brilliant ability to summarize in a sentence what most of us would have taken several minutes, several paragraphs (to say] and not say it as well."

The general usually disdained small talk, chit-chat, said Mr. Nixon; he reached unhesitatingly The President, illustrating De

In reference to the cartoon hy Mr Herblock appearing on Page 6 your Nov. 6 edition, I am roughly disgusted with this type of pictorial freedom with my image. I proudly helong to the NRA and fully support the efforts It is making to maintain my right to personal possessions, in the form of firearms. I deeply resent being pictured as a gun-toting gangster advocating mass murder.

I own many firearms in my Stateed. All leiters are subject to side collection and have never killed anyone. I have complied with the law and registered my weapons. I am afraid that if Mr. Herblock were to research his subject, he would find that the NRA initials, but preference will be (and its members) are above reproach in advocating stronger firearm and anti-crime legislation which will have visible effect rather than the mess of useless

Perhaps the exhibition would have been more radical had the choices fallen to the director of the Modern Museum here, Pontus Hulton, who is known for his leftist viewpoint.

One third of the exhibition (21 paintings) is devoted to works by Ola Billgren, considered one of the more talented and promising of the younger. artists. His paintings are strictly realistic, but he com-bines an original sense of timing and just aposition. . His "Mediterranean" is a large oil, divided down the center, with a couple in a bedroom scene on the right, and a view of a palmlined avenue on the left, evi-dently the French Riviera. His subtle lights and lengthening shadows set the time at late afternoon and impart life and added realism to the picture.

Billgren's other works cover a wide range, from still lifes to detailed portraits, or, rather, sections of portraits in which the setting plays as much of a role as the personage.

John-e-Franzen spent two and a half years on the U.S. West Coast (from 1966 to 1968) where he joined Hell's Angels, the motor cycle gang—the gang provided him, he says, with "indispensable" first-hand know-ledge. His interests are cars, motorcycles and girls and he treats his subjects with a brutality that one associates, rightly or wrongly, with Hell's

The Problem of Underpopulation in France

By Candace Dumont DARIS.—While the United States and other countries are growing increasingly—and justifiably—alarmed about overpopulation. France considers one of its major problems to be underpopulation and has been struggling to increase its numbers for many years.

Through its social security and family allotment plans, the French government spends approximately $4.5 billion annually in financial aid to induce its citizens to have children.

The list of benefits is lengthy, Beginning with pregnancy, social security pays expectant parents about $250 in three installments, with a bonus for children born within two years of their parents' wedding or within three years of a previous birth in the family. All med-icine, doctors' fees, hospital and nursery expenses, plus post-natal care, are largely reimbursed by social security. By law, a working mother is given a minimum leave of absence of six weeks before the birth and two months after. During this period her salary is paid in full—half by her employer, half by social security—and her job cannot be filled, creating some hesitation among employers about hiring young married wo-

Family Aid

After the birth, a govern ment agency for allocations fa-miliales takes over, making monthly payments to all families with dependent children under 20. The sums paid greatly merease for families with three children, who receive a monthly average of $45, and risc by another $30 for each additional child. If the mother does not work, an extra $18 is paid each family.

Ninety-eight percent of all French citizens are covered by social security and 100 percent are eligible for the allocation plan, Large families, those with three children or more, also receive special rates on public transportation.

In addition, there are lowcost government nurseries and virtually free education. France's policy may puzzle the ecology-conscious and all those to whom a stubbornly nonincreasing population sounds ideal. Why should a country smaller in area than the state of Texas, with a population of 50 million (one quarter of the U.S. population, 90 people per square kilometer compared to 22 in the United States, and a 'The average French family is unlikely housing shortage with to increase its population?

The reasons are mostly eco-nomic. Seriously depleted by two world wars and Malthusianminded parents, France's population curve declined steadily until 1946. The result was-and to a somewhat smaller degree still is—a severely distorted population pyramid, with a greatly increasing and disproportionate number of older people to be supported by a reduced and nonincreasing number of working-age citizens. This asymmetry was in large part responsible for France's alarming stagnation between 1913-1938, and for its failure to eroive industrially at the same rate as other Western industrial

Third Republic

In 1939, the Third Republic decided that since French par-ents could not be relied upon to produce large families on their own, a monetary incentive would be introduced. Succceding governments have all maintained and enlarged this while helpful, have fallen far short of their mark. After watching the French birth rate increase considerably between 1946-1960 (and it can be argued that the postwar baby boom prevalent everywhere was in large part responsible), the 1960s saw it slip steadily backward. There were 18.1 births per 1,000 population in 1964, 19.9 in 1967. Today, at 16.7, the birth rate is not far from the 1936 level of 14.9.

The decline set in despite immigration, medical progress and the fact that the large war-baby generation has now reached the child-bearing age.

Deeply concerned, the Pompi-dou government has just taken additional steps to increase the aid; raising sums paid to pregnant mothers and to the

However, the average French family, which has 2.4 children, is unlikely to be persuaded by an additional $30 a month to go from two to three children. Some will sigh with relief if the plan doesn't work, because, although economically France needs more people, the world at large does not. In 1850 the world population was approxi-mately 1 billion; in 1930, 2 billion; today it is 3.5 billion. Projections for the year 2000 reach 7 billion, and many ecolo-gists feel that the earth's food supply and environment can only sustain between 6 and

Dining Out in Rome....

Applying a Dumas Theory To Stuffing a Pheasant

By Naomi Barry

ROME.—Alexandre Dumas was a great eater and a great cook, and he wrote about some dishes that he ever got around to executing. One of Du-mas's more extravagant flights into gastronomic prose recently inspired a splendid new dish; Pheasant Porthos. The Idea came from a passage in Chapter 153 of "Le Vicomte de Bragelonne."

Angelo Bettoja, owner of the Roman restaurant Massimo d'Azeglio, read Dumas's mouthwatering description of a boned roast lamb stuffed with small sausages from Strasbourg, andouillettes (small sausages made of chitterlings) from Troyes, and mauriettes (larks) from Pithiviers. After he checked Escof-fier and found a similarly concocted pheasant dish, be proceeded with his own culinary surprise package

Applying the Dumas theory that a treasure within a treasure adds up to more treasure, hir. Bettoja dreamed, up a boned pheasant stuffed with a breast of partridge which in turn was lined with a breast of thrush. At the heart was a rich truffleretain its shape, the pheasant was tightly wrapped in a patch-work of stitched chicken skins. As it roasted, it was basted with cognac and white wine.

The creation has been named Pheasant Forthos, in deference to the paragraph in which the convivial musketeer explained to the king bow lamb was eaten in his part of the country. Mr. Bettoja altered the Dumas ingredients because he is a passionate hunter and his estate near Orvieto is wellstocked with game birds, including bob-white quails imported from Georgia Consequently, raw materials would not be lacking. Furthermore, be wanted an extraordinary dish for his mother's 70th birthday party. The chef of the Massimo d'Azeglio was given the job of translating fiction into fact. With Dumas propped up in his kitchen, he produced a triumph for Mamma who was born in Russia, brought up in America, and married an Italian hotelier when she came to Rome as a young woman to study singing.

The family success with Pheasant Porthos has now entered the repertory of the Massimo d'Azeglio. It is available during the hunting season months of November and December on 24 hours' notice. It costs 18,000 lire (approximately $291, but one bird will serve four persons. The restaurant, founded in

Midi Makes a Comeback in Moscow

By David Nagy MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (UPI).— The beautiful brunette sauntered down the runway of a Moscow fashion house advancing a Russian revolution with every step—the see-through, no-bra

But for the loud plane accompaniment, you could have heard a pin drop.

The nnde look invaded Russia in the All-Union House of Fashion, several long stone throws from the Kremlin. The occasion was the showing of fall. winter and spring wardrobes designed to show the essence of fashion for 1971." The main message of the show was that the midi dress, something Soviet women have worn throughout living memory, is now the official fashion-here aswell as in Paris. What really turned heads was designer Lens. Telegin's see-through evening

Strategic Stripe The Soviet Union's first, it was a black velvet midi gown with transparent black silk blouse and two strategic horizontal black stripes. Nikita S. Khrushchev certainly woold have reddened at the sight, and it is doubtful Soviet officialdom is now any less conservative, but a female official of the fashion house told an interviewer:

"This kind of thing is very individual. I think those who will object will be in the minority. And if they're going to object, they can stay at home. "Our artists consider there's no more beautiful sight than a woman's body, if it is revealed tastefully." Those are fighting words in a land where a daring mini skirt is one cut more than four inches abova the knee and can get the wearer lectured on the street by passing babushkas (grannles).

But there was more. The lady said the see-through fashion was not meant for mass production but would be simed at individuals who might like to wear it for home entertaining or for theatrical performers.

"And I think we'll develop a

• London's mod look is heavily favored for both men and women-extra-wide, sharply notched lapels, nipped waists and flared tails, bell bottoms and deep back vents. So is the Bonnie and Clyde look in ladies' hats, which tended to have broad droopy brims.

The following are extracts from the annual statement to shareholders, dated October 23, 1970, by the Chairmos of Roan Consolidated Mines Limited, Mr. A. S. Sardanio.

This statement eccompanies the 1970 report and accounts of Roan Consolidated Mines Limited. It marks on historic landwork in the development of the Zamblan copper mining industry, end it covers a period in which control over the exploitation of the nation's most valueble natural resource passed from the hands of the private companies which developed the industry into the control of the Government of the Republic of Zambia. Trogically, it must also record the worst disaster ever to afflict the Zembien copper mising lodustry in more then forty years of its existence. In the early bours of the morning of Friday. Septembar 25, a massiva cove-in occurred is the underground workings of Mufulira mine in the area of the Selkirk and Peterson shafts. With terrible speed and offect, over a million tonnes of sand, med and water cogoffed a large part of the mine. Despite the efforts of skilled end courageoes rescoe tooms from all over the Copperbelt, the lost hopes of sowing 95 mon known to be missing were obandoned on Susday, September 27,

On behall of the amoloyeas, directors, end mysell. ! eller sincero condolances to the lamilies of the victime. Chango of ownership. Is his oddress to the Notional Cooncil of the United National Independence Party at Mulungushi in April 1969, His Excellency tho Prooldent, Gr. K. D. Kaonda, laid the foundations of the 'accommic revolution' in Zambia, of which the changes is the ownership of the mining industry form a central part. The 'Molongushi Roforms', as it has come to be widely known, jovited 24 companies to offer 51 por cent of their shares to the State. This set the patters at ownership loter to be applied to the mising Industry. The Indestrial Development Corporation of Zambio Limited, which pince Independence in 1964 hed clayed a leading part in the development of certain basic industries which were an integral port of the First National Gevelopment Pien, was charged with rationalizing and directleg the new companies. On Aegust 11, 1969, in a speech to the National Compiled the United National Independence Party at Matern Hoff, Lusaka (the 'Motern Raforms'). His Excellency approunced further measures "to give the people of Zembie greater central of their oco to give offect to the nation's determination to become truly independent".

Of these the most important relating to the mining industry were:-

(a) A preclamation that all rights of ownership ar partial ownership of minerals mest revert to the State. and the introduction of mining Inaxes of eq to 25 years for axisting minoo, and a system of prespecting and exploration liconces which carries definite development programme obligations. (b) The cancellation of the royalty and export tex systom based on the selling price of capper on the

London Motal Exchange. (c) The introduction of a minoral tax exsesnable at the rate of 51 ger cent of taxable grolits. (d) An invitation to the owners of the operating mines to offer 51 per cent of their sharms to the State at e fair volun based on book valuo. On October t9, t 999, Kis Excellency was able to report that fundamental agreement had been reached In principle on the method and terms of gayment, the reorganization of the mining companies, and the arrongaments for management and consultancy, gales and marketing contracts. It woo further agreed that when these arrangements had been completed in detail they would become allective from Janeary I. 1970 A formal agreement embodying the main conditions was signed on December 24, 1969. On January 29 1970. His Excellency the President announced the creation of a new State company. Zambia Industrial and Mining Corporation Limited (2IMCO) of which he himself would become cheirman. The Industrial Development Corporation of Zambia Limited was to confinuo to hold the State's industrial Investment, but was to be renamed Indeco Limited and would become a wholly-awned outsidiary of ZIMCO. The mining invostments would be administered by enother new ZIMCO subsidiary to be called Mindoco Limited which woold hold 51 gor cent of the shares of the mining companies and the options to participote arrachmo te new prospocting licences.

On March 9 1979 Roan Selection Trust Limited (R$T)

that an agreement in principle had been reached batwaen the two groups for a reorganization of RST involving so emalgamation of Amex, which exceed about 42.3 per cent of the RST share capital, with part of the RST group. Proposals covering this agreement and the acquisition of a majority interest in the operating companies by the Government of Zambla were epproved at meetings of RST shora-holders on August 6, and confurmed by the High Court for Zambla on August 14, 1970. On the following iv, the agreements became le ally offective The operating companies have been formed into a single company (Roan Consolidated Mines Limited) of which Miodeco Limited holds 51 per cent, Anglo American Corporation holds 12.25 per capt through Zambie Copper lovestments Limited, RST International, Inc. # MODERN MEXICO!

"Mexico has enjoyed one of the highest rates of economic growth in the world in recent years," says a 1968 U.S. Commerce Department Study. Why? Because here's one of the world's most stable currencies. Because qualified experts call Mexico "the standout example of responsible government and business in Latin America." Because there's a controlled economic explosion going on in Mexico-in; industry, public works, consumer goods, international trade—which has created a true "investor's market" with a yield which invites comparison anywhere in the world. Bank Time Deposits earn 12% on a 5-year term—which jumps to 15% when you re-invest and compound the to 15% when you re-invest and compound the interest.

Maybe this helps to explain why the international "smart money" men are putting their funds down Mexico way.... and why maybe you should, too, for exactly the same good reasons.

Here are two offerings among many: 12% BANK TIME DEPOSITS: These loans to Mexico's Industrial Development Banks offer 11.25% after Mexican taxes (interest payable monthly) on 2-year terms.... up to 12% on a 5-year term, with interest always liquid and available. Ideal for the person no longer with regular independent income: investment: $4,000 U.S. Dollars. 9% DEMAND DEPOSITS: After Mexican taxes, earning 9% payable quarterly, here's total liquidity for any portfolio. Each Demand Deposit represents a priority claim upon the resources of an Industrial Development Bank. Minimum investment: $ 2.000 U. S. Dollars.

Record profits give proof of Company's strength the following era axtracts from the Repart and Accounts for the year ended 31st March, 1970, mended for the proposed reduction in Corporation Tes from 45% to 42½% announced by the Chancellor of the Exchaquer).

Results and Dividend. Once again Group results for the year showed a rise in both pre-tax and after-tax profits. Profit before 1xxation amounted to £50,802,883 egainst £48,419,971 and the profit after laxation attributable to Equity Stockholders amounted to £28,868,573 against £26,201,944. A final dividend of 21% is recommanded making a total for the year of 40%

Conclusion. Turnover and pre-tax profits for the first four months of the current year compare satisfactorily with the same period last year and provided there is no national economic setback we are hopeful that this trend will be reflected in the results for the full year. I hope that the nature decade upon which we have now embarked will prove to be a period of greater economic stability and growth than the previous one end on that basis I am confident that the Group will

In normal circumstances a pre-emptive bid with such a weak suit would not come into consideration, but eccentric three-blds are acceptable in third seat when not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents.

Three diamonds turned out to be a winning bid. North had such magnificent diamond support that he was willing to play five diamonds even opposite a hand that was known to be weak.

East was in a most difficult position at his second turn. His partner had made a takeout double, showing better than an opening bid, so it was clear that his partnership held most of the high-card strength. East doubled, correctly deciding that his side could not make five spades or six clubs. Unfor-tunately for him there was no way to defeat five diamonds West led the spade ace, which South ruffed. He led a trump and West went up with the ace and shifted to a heart. Thia helpful defense gave South an overtrick and a score of 650 points.

In the replay North opened the bidding with one spade, but his side never discovered the diamond fit. East overcalled with two clubs, and West made a cue-bid in spades and followed with three no-trump. This contract was unbestable, and West actually made 12 tricks when North chose to lead the diamond two.

THREE YEARS TO PLAY

Reviewed by John Leonard

By Colin MacInnes. Farrar, Straus and Giroux. .

THIS is a rare entertainment -a tour de force, but considerably more; the best historical novel in years, yet more various and demanding; a piece of literary speculation, not scholarly but wise; a delight. "Three Years to Play" is not the Colin Maclines of "The London Novels"—"City of Spades," "Absolute Beginners." "Mr. Love and Justice"—but the MacInnes of "Westward to Laughter," only writ large, the imagination rampant. Which is to say, "Three Years to Play" is not about our time, but Shake-speare's. It is set in the London of Elizabeth I, the end of the 16th century and the beginning of the 17th. Shakespeare himself is a character; his love life and his political intriguing touched on; and a play of his, based on our hero's travall, is produced in the (then brandnew) Globe Theatre, with the resulting maybem transcribed in outrageous iambic pentameter. There is the shock of gentus in this book, and not all of the genius belongs to Shakespeare.

Our hero is Aubrey, pockmarked but quick-witted son of an Essex whore, upon whose death our Aubrey hies himself off to London, there to consort with gangsters, become a pander, know just, impregnate its object, find manhood and one night trifle with some very personal sonnets, whose import he unfortunately grasps. Mr. Mac-Innes's style is, obviously, contagious, although, alas, in-imitable. "A play is like a maze," says Will to his players; "You know it hath within it a heart, a centre, that can be uncovered; for the maze is devised for this, as is a play to disclose, at last, its meaning. Yet once entered, this maze seems, for many weary days, a meaningless confusion: of paths that lead in false directions, or else nowhere."

Never, Our Aubrey finds London's underworld divided into two fiefs, that of the brothers Venice Doge and Genoa Doge. Between them they parcel out the brothels and the pickpocket trade. The son of one, Cecil, loves the son of the other, Robin. The families and their retainers fall out; both gangster courts are chased from the city by the police; both find brief repose in the forests near Epping and are partially reconcil-ed. Aubrey, having pledged his allegiance to one gang, ultimately joins the other, and leads born a bastard. In the interim, however, he meets an actor/ playwright, not quite up to Christopher Marlowe's exalted standards, but nonetheless popular; disposed to comedy writing, a bit enigmatic, having a wry way with words. Asked by Aubrey "And now he loves her not?" Will S. repiles: "Loves her?... My Lord loves victories; per ories: tomorrow Aubrey not only

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (NYT) .- Amid bowl rumors, the weekly debate over who's No. 1 and another long-distance dressing-room call from the country's No. 1 fan, Richard M. Nixon, college football prepares for its frantic final few Late yesterday, one of the teams involved in the post-season guessing game, unbeaten, once-tied Nebraska, held a players' meeting and news conference to announce its bowl intentions.

The Cornhuskers accepted an invitation to the Orange Bowl in Miami en New Year's Night. Coach Bob Devaney said it was the first time Nebraska team had accepted a bowl bid without knowing who we would have played."

"We couldn't tell the players whom we'd have to play or what it would mean," Devancy added. reflecting the current confusion over national rankings and their postseason significance. Notre Dame and Louisiana State could face similar situations next Sunday."

The phone also rang in the Ohio State dressing room last Saturday, but it was the White House, not the Rose Bowl, extending best wishes on the Buckeyes' exciting 10-7 victory over Avoiding any No. 1 prediction or presidential

"We hope to have some decision by Tuesday night," an Air Force spokesman said yesterday, "At least we'd like to have everything cleared up by then so that we can concentrate on the Colorado game this week." Air Force fans are caught in bowl fever. In his haste to make the opening kickoff for the Stanford game, Larry Fowler, a Falcon fan, locked his wife in the family camper in the Stadium parking lot. Georgia's 31-17 upset of Auburn, another high-scoring top ten member, may bave locked the door to the Tigers' major-bowl hopes. "The only thing that bothers me," said one Georgia player, "was that it could have been like this for us all year."

At least one Texas player, Bill Zapalac, appeared disturbed over the reaction to the Longhorns' 28-game victory string. "I wasn't upset over our game with Baylor two weeks ago so much as the reaction of the people," said Zapalac, a linebacker. "We won the game (21-14) and they acted as if we had ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 16 (AP) —The International Football Federation will stage a World Amsteur Cup competition if soccer is banned from the Olympic Games, FIFA president Sir Stanley Rous said today.

Writing in the latest edition of "FIFA News," Sir Stanley cited opposition from some International Olympic Committee officials to the inclusion of football in the Olympic program. Rous criticized a ban, or even a reduced number of eight teams in the final Olympic competition, because, ho said, "Association football is the most popular game in the world and is becoming increasingly so in the developing countries." Recalling that "yast sums of money" were spent by the FIFA in developing the game throughout the world, Sir Stanley added: "We could not allow this to go for nothing and, if it seemed that these countries would be shut out of the Olympic competition, then FIFA would organize a world amateur championship for a World Amateur

This, after all, is what the Olympic tournament really is." Sir Stanley also spoke outing method of choosing cities for the Olympic games, He said, "In Amsterdam this year, it was evident that hundreds of thousands of dollars had been epent on promotional activities by Detroit, Munich, Montreal and Moscow. "It is my contention such money would be better spent in improving sporting facilities in those cities, and would help the successful city to provide the necessary additional facilities required for staging of the competition. "If an eight or 12-year program were to be agreed upon. it would give much longer time for preparation and would also ensure a much fairer representation of countries. The games would move around the world more and spread the ideas of sportsmanship much more widely. "I believe there would also be a better spirit created within international sport, because some element of politicking and block voting would disappear once there was no longer any need to maneuver so long or so often over the choice of

Off-Broadway Actors Strike for More Pay

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP) --Some 200 actors and stage managers working in Off-Broadway productions went on strike early today over demands for increased salaries.

The walkout was called by 'Actors' Equity after a weekend of negotiations with the League of Off-Broadway Theaters failed to bring about agreement on a new three-year contract.

how many more fund-raising dinners can the Vice-President of the United States stand? It is no secret that, through no fault of his own, Spiro has been condemned, by the Republican party and the Nixon administration, to the fundraising banquet circuit for his entire term in office.

Despite what Mr. Agnew thinks of the cartoonists, col-umnists, and pundits, I can testify to the fact that he has only their sympathy and understanding. Only a sadist would not be moved by someone who was doomed for four years to ent all his meals in a Sheraton or Hilton hotel.

No cartoonist would do it: no columnist would do it. No Vice-President of the United States would do it, except Mr. Agnew.

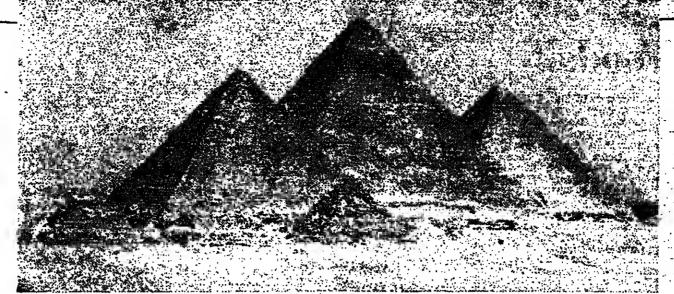

So far, the Vice-President has shown he has the stomach for it. But medical science has proved that no human being, no matter how strong willed can survive on chicken cacciatore for four years.

The question the American people have to decide is: do we want a Vice-President with a bad liver?

The men responsible for sending Mr. Agnew out day after day, and night after night, have shown little concern for his welfare: The White House staff refer to Mr. Agnew as "the man who came to din-They are not worried about his getting indigestion. As one White House staffer put it not long ago, "What's R lit-tle heartburn if you can win Mississippl?

To prove that we are not the heartless people Mr. Capp says we are, Miss McGrory, Mr. Block, and I have formed an "Ad Hoc Committee to Save the Vice-President's Liver." If need be, we will take it to the courts and prove that sentencing B man to the fund-raising banques circuit for four years is not only unconstitutional, but cruel and unusual punishment. Surely in this great country of ours, with so much opportunity and wealth, there is something the Nixon administration can find for the Vice-President of the United States to do, other than force feed him at the Biloxi Hilton.

Pyramids of Mycerinus (c. 2500 B.C.), Chefren (2530 B.C.) and Cheops (2750 B.C.) at Giza.

By John C. Devlin

NEW YORK (NYT).—A retired engineer specializing in ancient structures has told the American Museum of Natural History that he has found evidence he believes answers one of the greatest engineering puzzles of all time-how the great pyramids of Egypt were built.

The general assumption, because details have been lost in history, has usually been that at least 100,000 people using brute strength—in the days before the pulley, the derrick or winch—dragged, pushed, lifted manually an estimated total of 2.3 million blocks weighing from 2 1 2 to 14 tons to a height of 480 feet, using ramps.

The engineer. Olaf Tellefsen, writing in the museum's November issue of Natural History magazine, challenges this con-the use of ramps as the sole source of getting the massive blocks up the sides of the pyramids on the thesis that they would have had to have been at least a mile in length and a greater engineering feat than the construction of the pyramids themselves.

He also challenged the quantity of manpower, usually estimated at 100,000, on the ground that it was just not available, because most of the population would have been busy tending farms and engineer wrote. "Devise a means of building E 480-foot-high monument out of more than two million three-foot-square blocks of stone, without using any power other than human or animal strength.

"Based on an accidental observation in present-day Egypt. I have an answer that involves the use of one simple tool easily. accessible to the ancients and that does away with the need for the ramp and all but a few thousand of the postulated hordes of workers.

"On a trip up the Nile (not far from where the Rosetta Stone was found) I saw three men moving large stones to the water's edge from a pile that could well have been the remains of some ancient structure. When I saw the size of the stones my engineering sense told me that I had run across a technological curiosity of note."

Mr. Telleisen said, "The primitive piece of equipment the men were using was a triumph of elementary physics a large weight arm consisting of a heavy timber that pivoted on a sturdy, six-foot-high fulcrum." He said it was built obviously without an ax.

As he watched, he wrote, he saw the men put a sling under a two-ton stone and that while one man held the sling in place the two others with him piled stones on the other end of the "seeto raise the big stone, allowing rollers to be placed nnder it. The small stone counterweights were then dumped.

The engineer said he could envision hundreds of such devices being used. reducing the manpower requirement from the assumed 100,000 to a few thousand men.

Mr. Tellefsen, of Everett, Wash, a former design engineer for a Seattle shipbuilder, has made a lifetime hobby of studying ancient building methods.

359-47-68,

Ever since flunking Time magazine quondam quarterly current-events quirzes with uncommon consistency some decades ago, we've been lusting to settle the score with society.

The Time quiz, in our case, was inflicted in the 10th and 11th grades by an impermeable bulwark of the Westchester aca-demical hierarchy known to her

Miss Wood's Manual of Methodical Torture was a daily recitation of The Sayings of Fulton Lewis ir, one of the more joylal radio announcers of the era. But the Time quiz, when it all foiled down to little beads of sweat, was The Warden's ultimate weapon, Indeed, so universally despised was this particular variety of interrogation that our class, even in those pre-hippie days, gained a certain notoriety for the coming of a phrase that persists in youth circles to this Miss Wood, alas, has presum-ably joined Mr. Luce and Mr. Lewis in that exurb of the sweet bye-and-bye known as the Grand Old Paradise. No longer able, then, to extract our pound of flesh-which would have slipped away unnoticed in any case—from the substantial ma-jority of The Warden, and having risen to a giddy height of power undreamed of even by that worthy, we take unseemly delight in venting our spleen on our own vest constituency.

Restricting the quarterly People quiz to bona fide names which have appeared in the Trib over the past three months in the field of politics, sports, literature, cinema, opera or what-have-you, we ask you—with considerably more grace than did Miss Wood-to identify the following personalities:

Bomeo Lebiane, Urban Sprawi, Ng Boom Bee, Paolo Washing-ton and Tequils Mockingbird.

Keep your eyes on your own paper now, dammit, and don't expect so much as a stringy-lipped "Not bad" should you get all the answers right. You, as the creamed of the international intelligentsia, are expected to get all the answers right.

And don't, for heaven's sake, send your answers in. We know the answers. Mac, otherwise we'd be sitting back there with
